Trevian upset leaves CSL run up for grabs

By DENNIS MAHONE STAFF WRITER

Saturday's Central Suburban League South Division cross country meet in Waukegan might still turn out to be just another reaffirmation of the strength of Bvanston's boys team.

After all, the Wildkit runners are ranked third in the state and have already established a reputation as a solid "big meet" team.

But the outcome of the team race is still very much in doubt after New Trier's stunning 26-33 dual meet victory over the Kits Oct. 5.

Now there's a three-way the (among Evanston, New Trier and Maine South) as far as the point standings go, and that sets up a winner-take-all scenario Saturday. The crown might not fit Evanston.

Induries to Kevin Richards and Kyle Lesmes, the heart and soul of Evanston's pack behind front-runners William Artope and Tristan Roche enabled the Trevians to spring the upset in the regular season finale.

Lesmes was held out while his bad hip mends and Richards developed back problems in the middle of the race and limped home at the back of the field. And the Trexians recognized an opportunity and seized the win, capturing seven of the next eight places after the 1-2 finish by Artope (15:24) and Boche (15:32).

Evanston coach Don Michelin hopes his team learned a lesson and hopes it didn't come at the expense of a lesson championship.

"We probably would've gone 12.3 and we would've won the meet if Kevin hadn't been hurt." Michelin said "Now it's straight out, win ner-take-all Saturday. At least we get another crack at New Trier got up for this race, and we didn't get up for them. We were sturned by New Trier's pack and now we've put a lot of undue pressure on ourselves."

Sophomore Jason Toussaint, seventh in 16:11, was the only Evanston runner-up to break up New Trier's pact. The Trevians were paced by Erik Sksan, third in 15:47; John Gaines, fourth in 16:06; Geoff Struggles, fifth in 16:07; and Nick Digani, sixth in 16:10.

David Kerastas, Jon Lebovitz and Chris Yanaga also scored top 10 finishes.
